

The Art of Command: Military Leadership from George Washington to Colin Powell

HISTORY

"This collection of essays identifies and illuminates the dominant characteristics of America's most successful—and most innovative—military leaders. Each chapter connects the traits of these extraordinary men to the particular challenges they faced through well-researched, compelling, and intriguing vignettes."

—VICE ADMIRAL KEVIN P. GREEN, U.S. Navy (Ret.)

"Interesting, insightful, inspirational. A must-read for aspiring leaders."

—ADMIRAL HANK CHILES, U.S. Navy (Ret.), former chair, Leadership, Ethics, and Law Department, U.S. Naval Academy

The Art of Command: Military Leadership from George Washington to Colin Powell provides illuminating biographical portraits of exceptional leaders from all four branches of the United States armed forces. Tracing the careers and character traits of nine legendary leaders, editors Harry S. Laver and Jeffrey J. Matthews, along with an impressive list of contributors, provide readers with a richly detailed critical analysis of each leader's personal development and leadership style.

In examining the art and science of American military leadership from the American Revolution to the Persian Gulf War, The Art of Command probes the human and social factors that affect leadership development, as well as the education, experience, and mentoring that shape a leader's career. This volume of timeless insights will be welcomed by military students and historians, as well as leaders from all walks of life.

HARRY S. LAVER, associate professor of history and political science at Southeastern Louisiana University, is the author of Citizens More Than Soldiers: The Kentucky Militia and Society in the Early Republic.

JEFFREY J. MATTHEWS, professor and director of the business leadership program at the University of Puget Sound, is the author of Alanson B. Houghton: Ambassador of the New Era.
